

Characteristics of Living Things

Have the ability to reproduce

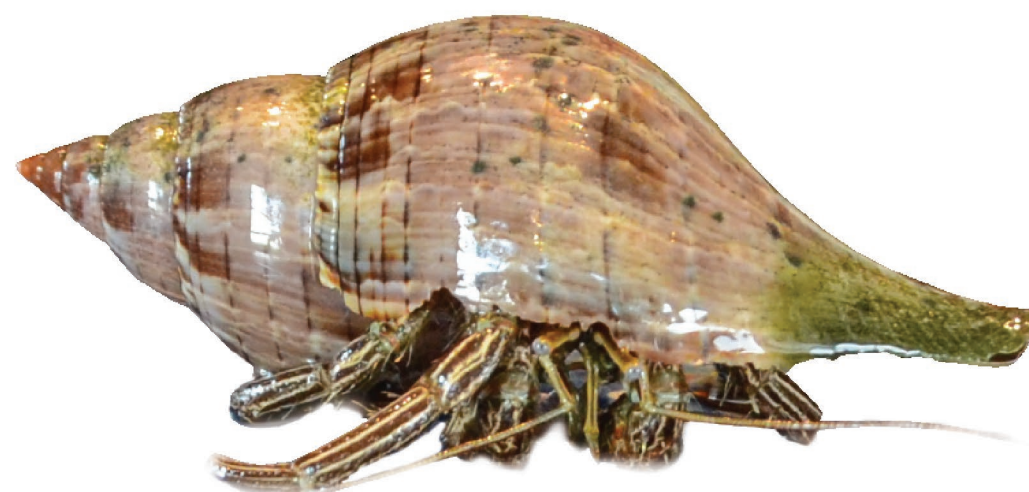

Have the ability to grow and develop

Have the ability to take nutrients and energy from the environment and convert them into a usable form

Have the ability to interact with and respond to the environment

Have the possession of a complex and highly organized structure

